

Young Learners
(Children and Teenagers)
Special Interest Group of the International Association of Teachers of English as a Foreign Language

2008 YL SIG fielded discussions

YOUNG LEARNERS AS DIGITAL NATIVES

Date: 17-22 March 2008. Where? In front of your monitor

Are our young learner students changing as a result of exposure to digital technology, and if so, what can teachers do about it?

Are our young learner students changing as a result of exposure to digital technology, and if so, what can teachers do about it?

Graham Stanley

Graham Stanley is a senior teacher at the British Council Young Learner Centre in Barcelona, Spain, and product manager for the British Council Second Life project:

<http://teen.secondlife.com>

His special interest is in the application of emerging technologies (IWBs, blogs, wikis, podcasts, games, virtual worlds, etc) to language learning and teaching.

Pre-Reading:

He has set up a wiki for the discussion, which anyone can join and add to, and has entered the title and pre-reading/watching there :

<http://younglearners.wikispaces.com/>

Join YL SIG on-line here or download a membership form here.

Visit YL SIG's brand new website at www.ylsig.com