

Young Learners

(Children and Teenagers)
Special Interest Group

2008 YL SIG fielded discussions

TEFL in China

When? 17-21 November 2008. - Where? In front of your monitor reading emails.

CHEN Zehang is a lecturer in the English Department, School of Foreign Languages and Literatures, Beijing Normal University, China. She is also a special lecturer in the School of Education, University of Nottingham, UK. She has just completed her PhD in e-learning and teacher development from University of Nottingham. She has been involved in various projects as researcher, materials developer and trainer. Her special interests are teaching English to young learners, ELT methodology, teacher development and e-learning.

Wang Qiang, (MA. MEd. PhD) Professor and director of the Centre for Foreign Language Education and Teacher Education in the School of Foreign Languages and Literatures, Beijing Normal University. She teaches Language Learning Theories and ELT Methodology to both undergraduate and post-graduate students. Her areas of interest include: curriculum development, teacher education and development, action research, second language acquisition, and ELT methodology. She has published quite extensively in the areas of ELT curriculum innovations, teacher training, and materials development in China. She has co-headed the National English Language Curriculum Design Project for Chinese Schools since 1999 and has involved in a number of research projects on English language teaching in China. She also sits on various ELT committees for promoting good practice and quality research in China.

Ma Xin, (MA, PhD Candidate), an English teacher and teacher trainer at School of Foreign Languages and Literatures, Beijing Normal University, P. R. China. Her research interests include in-service and pre-service teacher training, teacher change, ELT methodology, and materials development. In recent years, she has participated in a number of projects related to teacher development and textbook writing.

This discussion will be brought to you with the support of

visit YL SIG at www.ylsig.com

Join YL SIG on-line here or download a membership form here.